

Dipesh Chakrabarty

The University of Chicago

The Climate of History in a Planetary Age

Lecture and Discussion via zoom

25 February 2022 at 2.30pm

Registration:

<https://forms.ncl.ac.uk/view.php?id=13337585>

Warming stripes juxtaposing annual average temperatures in the northern and southern hemispheres (1880-2018)
© R Craig, based on the visual concept by E Hawkins

In preparation for the lecture, the Anthropocene Research Group is offering three reading group sessions:

Humanities Research Institute

25 January at 4pm

“The Globe and the Planet: Four Theses”

chapter 1 (pp. 23-48)

<https://newcastleuniversity.zoom.us/j/88271657271>

8 February at 4pm

“The Planet: A Humanist Category”

chapter 3 (pp. 68-92)

<https://newcastleuniversity.zoom.us/j/81514074886>

22 February at 4pm

“Toward an Anthropological Clearing”

chapter 8 and A conversation with Bruno Latour (182-204 and 205-217)

<https://newcastleuniversity.zoom.us/j/81383907072>

The readings are taken from Dipesh Chakrabarty's The Climate of History in a Planetary Age (Chicago 2021), which is available online via Newcastle University Library.

Information on the events can be obtained by contacting Professor Bernhard Malkmus under bernhard.malkmus@newcastle.ac.uk or on <https://research.ncl.ac.uk/anthropocene/events/>

