Monastic Life at Battle Abbey

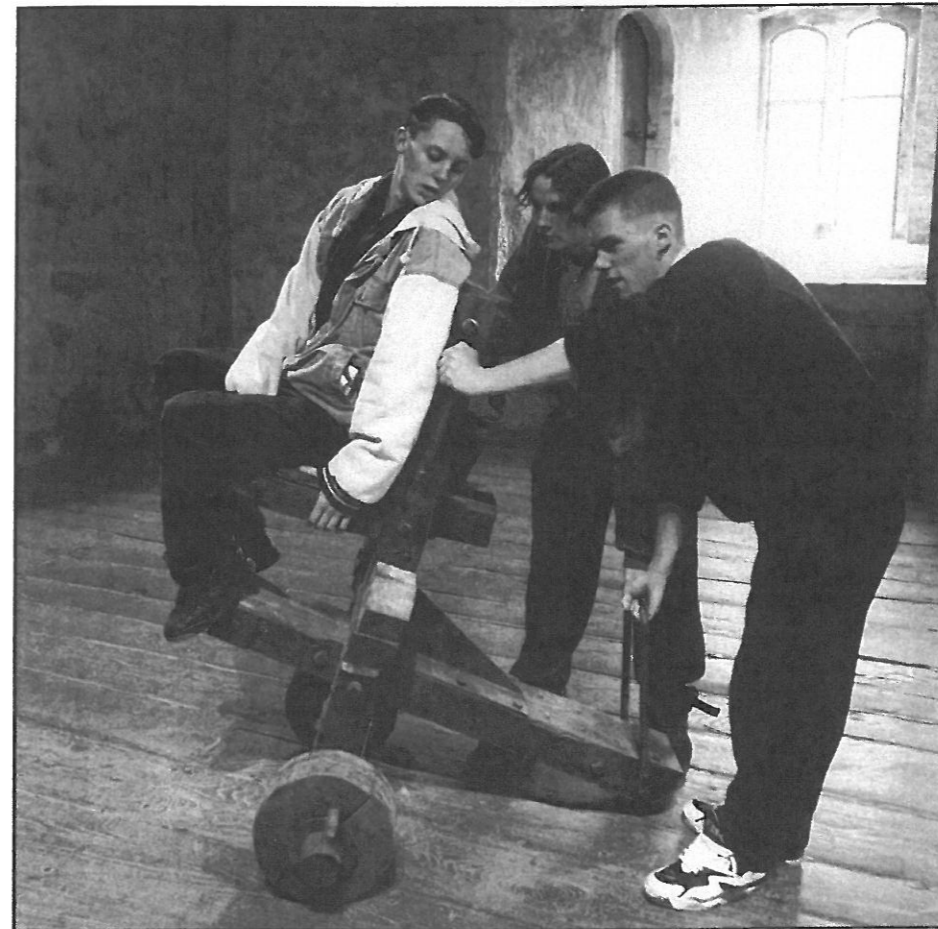

Monastic Life is the title of English Heritage's first interactive video which will form one area of the new Great Gatehouse Museum at Battle Abbey, due to open before the end of Easter Term. From a menu showing a bird's eye view of the Abbey, you can choose the area that interests you to examine in greater historical detail, calling up objects found on site or recreating life in the Abbey. You can scroll through the list of abbots and view charts illustrating the number of monks in each century. For more details on booking free educational visits to Battle Abbey contact: Liz Hendry, English Heritage, tel. 0892-548166.

Films and videos on the environment

This free leaflet has been produced by The Environment Council as part of their Information Programme. It is a useful guide to sources of films and videos in subject areas including fauna, ecosystems, earth resources, pollution, energy, population, the built environment and urban issues. For a copy and further details of the work of The Environment Council contact: The Environment Council, 80 York Way, London N1 9AG. Tel 071-278 4736.

Archeos 92

The Second International Festival of Films on European Archaeology will be held in London between 23-28 November 1992. The Festival will include screenings, workshops and lectures. Films and videos are being considered for selection up to 10 July 1992. If you would like to submit an entry or to obtain more details contact Mike Corbishley, English Heritage, Keysign House, 429 Oxford Street, London W1R 2HD.

Our new Information for Teachers booklet will be available in March. This contains ideas for preparation, on-site and follow up work, a gazetteer of all English Heritage sites, how to book free visits and a booking form.
