

EDUCATION ON SITE

These teacher's guides suggest educational strategies for using the historic environment as part of programmes of study across many curriculum subjects. Each is packed with practical exercises and ideas to aid understanding for pupils at all Key Stages.

New titles

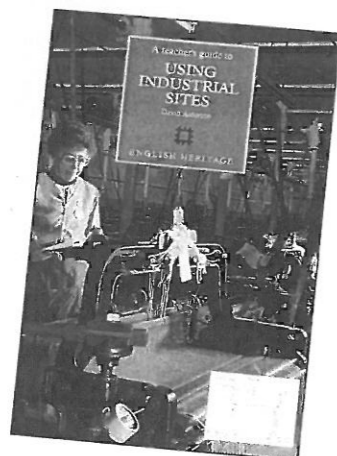

Newspapers and conservation
Jenny Barnicoat

All over the country teachers and pupils study their locality either in its own right or to illustrate national history, and are increasingly concerned with conservation issues. Every year schools produce their own newspapers to give pupils a chance to write with a purpose for a real audience. This book is intended to help teachers combine these activities in a fresh and exciting way.
36pp, A4, 1994 £5.95
ISBN 1-85074-511-0
Product code XP10662

Using industrial sites
David Alderton

The Industrial Revolution completely altered both landscape and society in Britain. This book will help teachers all over the country use the physical evidence of past industrial sites and artefacts as both a stimulus and a learning tool for almost every subject in the curriculum.
36pp, A4, 1995 £5.95
ISBN 1-85074-445-9
Product code XP10655

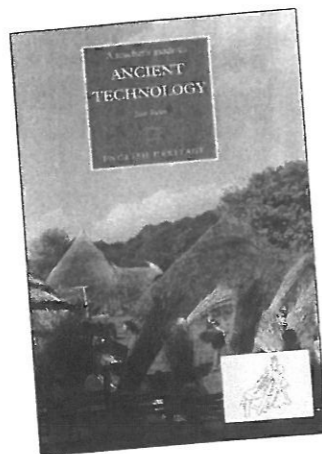

Using memorials
Sallie Purkis

Memorials are important social documents and primary historical sources, whether of individuals and families, or of significant events in local or national history. This book aims to help teachers seek out monuments or memorials in their own locality and to use them as a source for curriculum work.
36pp, A4, 1995 £5.95
ISBN 1-85074-493-9
Product code XP10661

Forthcoming titles

Ancient technology
Jake Keen

How did our ancestors build their homes, keep warm and feed themselves? How did they fashion tools from flint or bone, or get metal out of rock? This book shows how a practical approach to answering such questions can stimulate learning across the whole curriculum and help teachers and pupils get the maximum out of a site visit.
36pp, A4, Summer 1995 £5.95
ISBN 1-85074-448-3
Product code XP10660

Battlefields, defence, conflict and warfare
Phillippe Planet

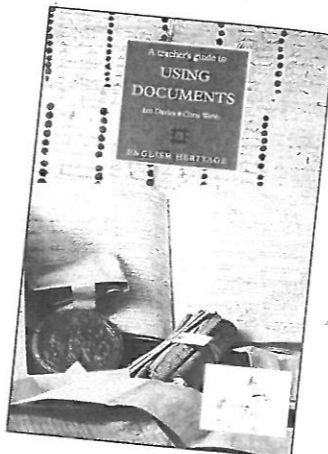

This book explores the physical evidence of conflict from the archaeological evidence for warfare in prehistoric England, to the sites of great medieval battles and sieges, the Civil War and the evocative remains of Second World War pillboxes and late twentieth-century defence systems. It suggests how to fit them into practical, cross-curricular work.
36 pages, A4, Summer 1995
ISBN 1-85074-590-0 £5.95
Product code XP10772

Churches, cathedrals, and chapels
Richard Morris

Churches, cathedrals and chapels offer an inexhaustible range of teaching and study opportunities. This book places them in their historical context, introducing sources and suggesting themes, exercises and project ideas.
36pp, A4, Autumn 1995 £5.95
ISBN 1-85074-447-5
Product code XP10496

Using documents
Ian Davies and Chris Webb

The understanding and interpretation of history is rooted in documents. This book aims to stimulate work in schools by introducing teachers to archives which are locally accessible. Each section includes facsimiles of documents and notes on their archival and historical context.
36pp, A4, Autumn 1995 £5.95
ISBN 1-85074-478-5
Product code XP10654

Already published

Geography and the historic environment
Tim Copeland

This book aims to help teachers understand the places that we live in by investigating how they were used in the past and how that past has influenced the present. It explores individual sites and local landscapes and shows how geographical skills may be developed through working with the historic environment.
36pp, A4, 1993 £5.95
ISBN 1-85074-332-0
Product code XP10085
See also Videos

History through role play
John Fairclough

Role play can take many forms - from one teacher wearing a special hat in the classroom to the whole school working in costume at an historic site. This book looks at some of the ways teachers can use role play to support learning about history. It includes case studies from different periods and types of historic site.
36pp, A4, 1994 £5.95
ISBN 1-85074-478-5
Product code XP10495
See also Videos

Learning from objects
Gail Durbin, Susan Morris and Sue Wilkinson

This book is for teachers who want to encourage children to learn from physical things. It suggests a method of analysing objects and a range of classroom games to help develop the skills that are necessary for fieldwork at sites or museums.

36pp, A4, 1990 £5.95
ISBN 1-85074-259-6
Product code XP13435

Maths and the historic environment
Tim Copeland

This book explores the unique problem-solving aspects of mathematical processes when applied to the historic environment. It will help teachers prepare to get the maximum from a visit to an historic site or building.
36pp, A4, 1992 £5.95
ISBN 1-85074-329-0
Product code XP11490
See also Videos

Science and the historic environment
Jane Pownall and Nick Hutson

This book will help teachers spot new opportunities to bring science alive. There are sections on earth science and human influences on the environment; structures and forces; food and cooking through the ages; science from clothing; light in the home; museum classification and artefact preservation.
36pp, A4, 1992 £5.95
ISBN 1-85074-331-2
Product code XP11491
See also Videos

Storytelling at historic sites
Eric Maddern

This book explores the kind of stories which may have been told at historic sites in Britain from the time of the hunter-gatherers through to the seventeenth century. It suggests ways to bring these historic sites alive by recreating the oral traditions of our ancestors.

36pp, A4, 1992 £5.95
ISBN 1-85074-378-9
Product code XP10077
See also Audio

Special Offer
Order the Storytelling book and cassette pack together for the special price of £13.50, a saving of 15%.
Product code XP10076

Using abbeys
Cynthia Cooksey

This book aims to give teachers all the background information they need when using abbey sites, including strategies which will enable children to understand both the physical remains and the nature of the lives that were lived there.
36pp, A4, 1992 £5.95
ISBN 1-85074-328-2
Product code XP11511
See also Videos

Using castles
Tim Copeland

This book looks at medieval castles with the aim of helping teachers gain confidence in using them with their pupils. There are case studies exploring how castles worked; building a castle; ideas for activities on site; a look at castles now and the issues of conservation and tourism.
36pp, A4, 1993 £5.95
ISBN 1-85074-327-4
Product code XP10084
See also Videos and Posters

Using historic houses
Gail Durbin

Historic houses come in many guises. The book covers houses from the medieval period onwards, looking not exclusively at grander country houses but also at empty and ruined buildings and the more common furnished house.

36pp, A4, 1993 £5.95
ISBN 1-85074-390-8
Product code XP10085
See also Videos

Using listed buildings
Crispin Keith

About 500,000 historic buildings in England are protected through listing. This book explains what listing is, and how teachers can make the best educational use of listed buildings. It looks at the issues raised by conservation and the conflicts of interest which it engenders.
36pp, A4, 1991 £5.95
ISBN 1-85074-297-9
Product code XP11492

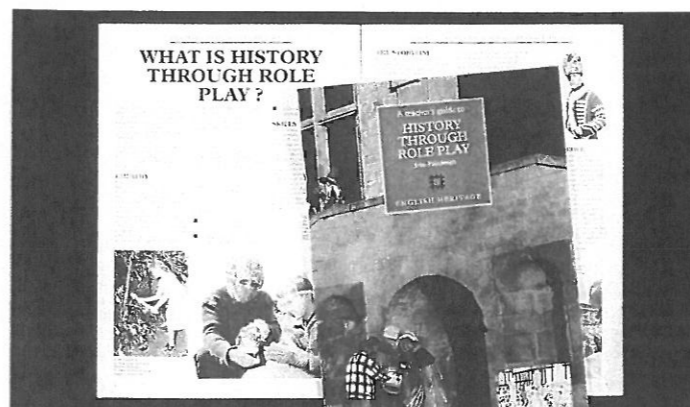

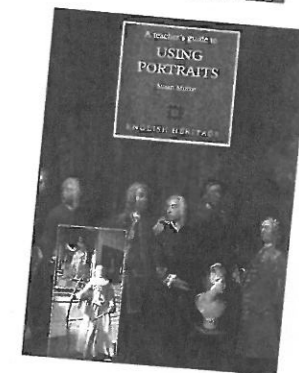

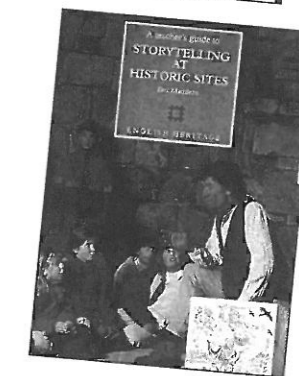

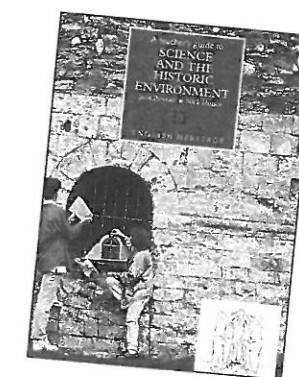

Using portraits
Susan Morris

Portraits are the gossip columns, newswatches, party political broadcasts and family albums of the past. They are found in most country houses and museums, and this book aims to help teachers decode some of the messages they contain.
48pp, A4, 1989 £5.95
ISBN 1-85074-231-6
Product code XP13058
See also Slide Packs

Using school buildings
Sallie Purkis

Every year schools all over the country research the history of their own schools. This book suggests activities and ideas for teachers to use their physical evidence. Each section focuses on a particular line of enquiry - the history of school buildings, documentary and oral evidence, photographs and objects.

36pp, A4, 1993 £5.95
ISBN 1-85074-379-7
Product code XP11510

EDUCATION

Our Education Service aims to help teachers make better use of the resource of the historic environment, at any level from Key Stage 1 to further, higher and adult education. Educational group visits to over 400 English Heritage sites are absolutely free. Our Free Educational Visits booklet contains full details of how to book free visits along with a complete list of all English Heritage properties. To get a free copy tick the box on the order form at the back of this catalogue or contact:

English Heritage Education Service
429 Oxford Street
London W1R 2HD
Tel 0171-973 3442/3443
Fax 0171-973 3430

ISBN 1-85074-289-8 £4.95
Product code XN13047
 See also Slide Packs and General Books

Pendennis and St Mawes Castles
 Rosemary Cooper

These twin Cornish castles were built by Henry VIII as coastal defences against France and Spain. Such was their strategic location that they retained a defensive role until the Second World War. The sites are excellent bases for a study of the development of coastal defence from the 1540s to the 1950s.
 36pp, A4, 1994 £3.95
 ISBN 1-85074-377-0
Product code XN10081

Pevensey Castle
 Dot Meades

This medieval castle was built within the walls of a Roman fort. Building of the castle began in Norman times and additions have been made at periods as recently as the Second World War.
 36pp, A4, 1991 £3.95
 ISBN 1-85074-309-6
Product code XN10561
 See also Posters

Peveril Castle
 Suzanne Spicer

Peveril Castle in Derbyshire stands high on a ridge surrounded by precipitous slopes which provide the most spectacular of natural defences. It was one of the first castles to be constructed in stone. The remains provide an easy-to-understand layout of a typical small castle.
 36pp, A4, 1994 £3.95
 ISBN 1-85074-313-4
Product code XN10223
 See also Videos

Portland Castle
 Genevieve Wheatley

Portland Castle in Dorset was completed in 1540 as part of Henry VIII's defence of the realm against France and Spain. A visit to it can bring the drama of those events alive for pupils studying the Tudor period.
 36pp, A4, 1994 £3.95
 ISBN 1-85074-450-5
Product code XN10583

Rochester Castle
 Tim Copeland

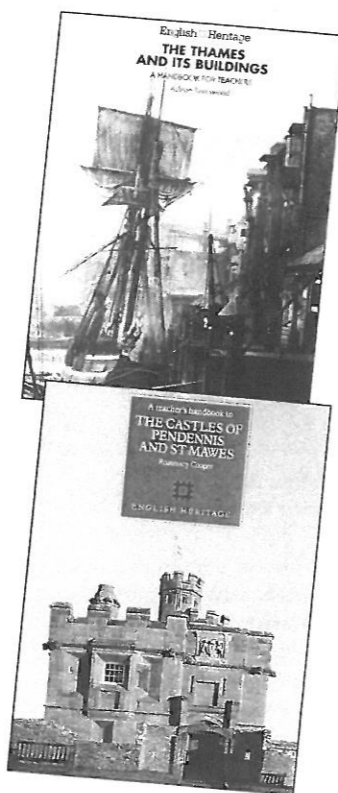

Rochester Castle in Kent is one of the finest examples of a Norman castle in the country. Discovery of its design and purpose can involve learning skills such as observation, recording, deduction, measuring, estimating and language.
 36pp, A4, 1990 £3.95
 ISBN 1-85074-217-0
Product code XN13049

St Augustine's Abbey, Canterbury
 Stephen Scoffham

St Augustine's, built AD598, is the oldest Anglo-Saxon abbey in England. The handbook includes nine trail sheets, ideas for data collection; extracts from original documents, a time chart and reconstruction drawings.
 48pp, A4, 1988 £3.95
 ISBN 1-85074-196-4
Product code XN13050

St Briavel's Castle
 Robin Clutterbuck

The castle of St Briavel's, now a Youth Hostel, stands high above the River Wye. It is an important example of the evolution of castle architecture, as well as an illustration of the civil and military importance of castles in the Middle Ages.

 36pp, A4, 1994 £2.95
 ISBN 1-85074-320-7
Product code XN10083

St Catherine's Oratory
 Elizabeth Newbery

Overlooking Blackgang Chine on the Isle of Wight, this was built in the early fourteenth century as a chapel-cum-light-house. The handbook also covers a history of lighthouses in general.
 12pp, A4, plus 2 activity sheets, 1987 £2.95
 ISBN 1-85074-147-6
Product code XN13051

The Thames and its buildings
 Adrian Tinniswood

Marble Hill House, The Chapter House Westminster Abbey, The Jewel Tower, London Wall, Winchester Palace and Hadleigh Castle are all covered in this pack for classes studying the Thames. A photographic trail, a DIY guide-book and a landscape survey are just some of the lively ideas for planning work.

 48pp, A4, 1990 £4.95
 ISBN 1-85074-282-0
Product code XN13433

Tilbury Fort
 Frankie Dale

Tilbury Fort is the best preserved and in many ways the finest surviving example of late seventeenth-century military architecture in England. Its dramatic pentagonal design could stimulate a variety of cross-curricular activities.
 36pp, A4, 1989 £3.95
 ISBN 1-85074-216-2
Product code: XN 13052
 See also Posters

Totnes Castle
 Stewart Brown and Robin Clutterbuck

This handbook includes plans of how to make a Norman motte and a role play activity Murder in the Castle. It includes two interacting site trails for Normans and Saxons and an archaeological survey sheet.
 28pp, A4, plus 3 activity booklets, 1988 £3.95
 ISBN 1-85074-200-6
Product code XN13250
 See also Discovery Packs

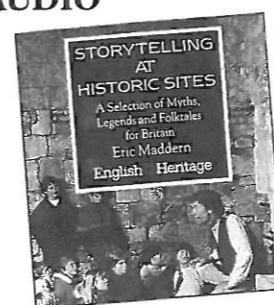

Upnor Castle
 Harriet Blanchard, Linda Edwards and Christine Lloyd

Upnor castle, still almost intact, is a sixteenth-century fort built to defend the naval dockyards at Chatham.
 36pp, A4, 1991 £3.95
 ISBN 1-85074-287-1
Product code XN10562

Yarmouth Castle
 Elizabeth Newbery

This handbook contains detailed information about sixteenth-century methods of attack and defence; a cut-out model; a survey sheet and an activity based on the theme of pirates.
 12pp, A4, plus 3 activity sheets, 1987 £2.95
 ISBN 1-85074-149-2
Product code XN13053

AUDIO

Storytelling at historic sites - a selection of myths, legends and folktales for Britain
 Told by Eric Maddern
 This double audio-cassette pack contains twenty stories set to music ranging from Greek myths, iron age, Roman, Celtic, Saxon and Viking tales to medieval and Stuart stories. All are suitable for telling at sites as a way of bringing the spirit of ancient places alive for children.
 2x90 minute cassettes; 1992 £9.95
Product code XP10078
 See also Education on Site

Special Offer

Order the Storytelling book and cassette pack together for the special price of £13.50, a saving of 15% on the individual prices.
Product code XP 10076

CD ROM

New title

Castles
 produced by Anglia Multimedia

This disc opens up an exciting new world of study, introducing a large selection of castles throughout the British Isles, with colour photographs, drawings, animations and Replay sequences designed for classroom use. Individual castles can be selected for detailed study, or searched for in the school's locality. There are video sequences explaining life in a castle, with examples of defensive and offensive weaponry, and pupils can access illustrations to move to their own work.

 For Acorn, Apple Mac and IBM-compatible PC computers.
 Suitability: Key Stage 3; GCSE; adult education.
 1994 £47

Product code XQ 10782

See also Education on Site and Videos

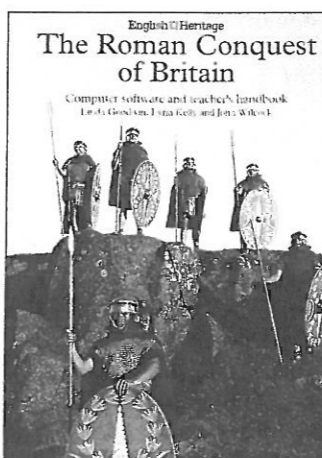

POSTERS

Archaeological detectives poster games

This set of posters encourages children to learn through playing archaeological games: The Archaeological Detectives Game, The Dustbin Game, The Layer Game and The Skeleton Game.
 A3-size £2.95
Product code XR10503
 See also Videos

Looking at castles

This pack of six posters uses lively drawings and descriptive text to bring to life aspects of medieval castles. They include building a castle; the castle keep; attacking a castle; defending a castle; living in a castle and four artists' impressions showing different stages of castle development.
 A3-size; two colours, 1994 £3.95
 ISBN 1-85074-490-4
Product code XR10506
 See also Education on Site and Videos

Castles and later fortifications

These are full colour aerial photographic posters with notes for teachers and suggested book list printed on the back.
 680 x 480mm
Carisbrooke Castle £2.50
Product code XR13070
Deal Castle £2.50
Product code XR13071
Fort Brockhurst £2.50
Product code XR13073
Pickering Castle £2.50
Product code XR13075
Portchester Castle £2.50
Product code XR13076
Tilbury Fort £2.50
Product code XR13077
Tynemouth Castle and Priory £2.50
Product code XR13078

Stott Park Bobbin Mill

Illustrates each stage of how a bobbin was made with descriptive text.
 A2-size; full colour £2.50
Product code XR 13079
 See also Videos

SOFTWARE

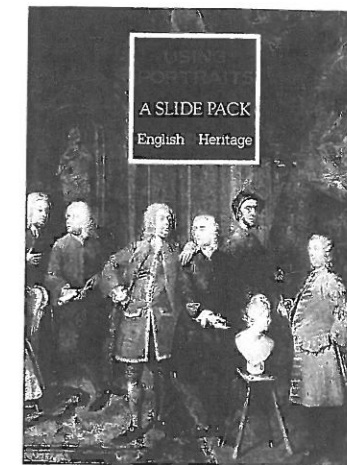

The Roman conquest of Britain

This package involves pupils in a variety of experiences connected with the Roman invasion and conquest of Britain. The four modules transport pupils back in time where they take on the role of a real character involved in a series of events. Decision making is an important element of the package. The teacher's handbook provides information on the Roman invasion of Britain, suggesting National Curriculum links.
 20 page booklet, A4, plus disks, 1994
 Suitability: Key Stage 2; compatible with BBC B and Acorn Archimedes 400 computers £18.95

Product codes
 XQ10317 - BBC B
 XQ10341 - Archimedes 400

Digging deeper into history - a classroom resource pack

Roger Martlew/NCET
 This explores the environmental impact of a new gas pipeline on eastern Yorkshire. Designed primarily for teaching history and archaeology, the package can also be used as part of a geography or environmental studies course. Pupils investigate the impact on archaeological sites and the landscapes and take on roles in planning applications before producing a report.

 English Heritage/NCET, 1989 £29.95
 ISBN 1-85074-236-7
 Suitability: Key Stages 2 & 3; GCSE; adult education.
 Compatible with BBCB, BBC Master, RM480Z and RM Nimbus computers.
Product code XQ13069

SLIDE PACKS

Using portraits

These slides illustrate the range of material to be found in portraits. Accompanying notes discuss the various elements that can be examined, including clothing, facial expressions, pose and gesture, background and accessories, size, medium and composition.
 12 slides with 8pp of teachers notes, 1989 £3.95
 ISBN 1-85074-260-X
Product code XS13080
 See also Education on Site

Victorian Osborne

These slides are all either archive photographs or nineteenth-century paintings, some by Queen Victoria, of the Royal Family and their private home and estate on the Isle of Wight.
 12 slides with 8pp of teachers notes, 1987 £3.95
Product code XS13081
 See also Teacher's Handbooks and General Books